

Think about the sources of stress in your life. See if you can categorise them into the factors you can control and those you can't.

